About Joy Marshall, MD, MA

Early in life, Dr. Joy Marshall saw the impact her father made for patients and wanted to become a doctor. While she initially took a different path, Dr. Marshall is grateful to be living her dream now as a board-certified family physician. I want my patients to know that I am there for them,” she says. “I take time to listen and share knowledge so we can become partners in healing.” Her hope is that by explaining things—not once, but in each visit—there will be healthful changes over time.

In her down time, Dr. Marshall keeps up with medical research, exercises, reads literature, gardens, and cares for her dog Jackson. She also loves to connect with her daughters and grandchildren.
