“I value the relationships I forms with patients because doctors are only one half of the patient-doctor team.”

About Jason Gregorin, DO

Whether caring for his younger siblings' bruises as a child or taking pre-med classes, Dr. Jason Gregorin has always wanted to be a doctor. He says medicine is “a perfect mix” between his love for science and compassionate instinct. Dr. Gregorin values the relationships he forms with patients. “Doctors are only one half of the patient-doctor team,” he adds. Dr. Gregorin loves working with the senior population, explaining that their wisdom and life experiences have pushed him to continuously learn and grow as a doctor.

A dedicated Cleveland Browns fan, Dr. Gregorin watches almost every game. He loves hiking, biking, and relaxing with his wife and children. He hopes to one day visit the United Kingdom, particularly Stone Henge.
