About Latoya Fulton, DO

Doctor LaToya Fulton earned her doctoral degree from Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine in Blacksburg, Virginia. She completed an osteopathic family medicine residency at Houston Healthcare in Warner Robins, Georgia and a family medicine residency at Osteopathic Medical Education Consortium of Oklahoma in Tulsa, Oklahoma. She also served as Chief Resident at Integris NW Family Medicine Residency 2015 to 2016. Dr. Fulton is a member of the American Osteopathic Association and the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians.

“My favorite part about being a physician is being able to educate patients on how to better manage their health, and the relationships we build in the process,” said Dr. Fulton. “I enjoy getting to know my patients and the things that are important in their lives.”
