“I love getting to work with patients, getting to know them, earning their trust, and helping them through their time of need.”

About Deanna King, MD, MS

Dr. Deanna King says her patients are her favorite part of being a primary care physician. She explains, “I love getting to work with patients, getting to know them, earning their trust, and helping them through their time of need.” She strives to learn about patients beyond their medical concerns and enjoys building honest connections. “I find that sharing information about myself helps the patient feel more at ease and helps to create a genuine bond,” Dr. King says. If she could change anything about healthcare today, she would increase accessibility and affordability.

When Dr. King is not with her patients, she can be found spending time with her dog and caring for her many plants. She also enjoys painting.
