“I am a person who loves to learn and loves to share knowledge with people.”

About Stefanny Santana Rivera, MD, MHA

During medical school, Dr. Stefanny Santana Rivera “learned the importance of primary care, prevention, and social determinants of health,” which led her to realize her “passion for prevention and counseling the elderly population.” Developing relationships with her patients and their families is her favorite part of being a physician. “I am a person who loves to learn and loves to share knowledge with people,” she says. She is “open and honest” with her patients and likes serving as a guide to help them “improve their overall health and wellbeing.”

In her free time, Dr. Santana Rivera loves going on long walks and ballroom dancing with her husband. She also enjoys traveling and learning new languages, cultures, and cuisines.
