About Tara Neil, MD

Dr. Tara Neil was inspired to pursue a career in medicine by the Family Physicians in her rural Kansas community and the relationships they formed with their patients and families. “Long term relationships with patients and their families while helping them learn about their health” is her favorite part of her profession. She loves learning about her patients and always listens to what they have to say. “I know the health care system is complicated. I want to help my patients navigate it.” She adds, “I don’t always know the answer, but with my patients help, we can find it together.”

In her free time, Dr. Neil can be found enjoying time in the garden with her husband or learning how to play video games with her children.
