“I enjoy the opportunity to honor seniors and learn from the wisdom they have obtained over their lives.”

About Teresa Rodeheffer, MD

Dr. Teresa Rodeheffer explains that working in healthcare is “the perfect intersection” of her “interests, skills, and the needs of the community.” She loves learning about her patients. “A person’s health is often affected by what is going on in other areas of their lives as well, and I like to ask about these areas as well,” she says. She loves supporting her patients and feels “honored” to receive their trust. She adds, “I also enjoy the opportunity to honor seniors and learn from the wisdom they have obtained over their lives.”

When not with patients, Dr. Rodeheffer can be found singing in the local Cincinnati Camerata Choir. She also loves spending time with her two children and playing board games with friends and family.
