“I believe every patient has a story to tell, and it’s my job to find out what that is.”

About Amanda Arinze, MD

Growing up, Dr. Amanda Arinze knew she “had a vocational calling to medicine and to serving vulnerable populations.” She enjoys learning about her patients and wants them to know she genuinely cares about them. “I believe every patient has a story to tell, and it’s my job to find out what that is,” she says. She believes in holistic care and particularly enjoys caring for the senior population. “They are truly an overlooked, forgotten, and neglected population, and yet they have lived and contributed to society over the years,” she says.

In her free time, Dr. Arinze loves traveling the world, trying new foods, and spending time with family and loved ones. She also enjoys singing and writing songs.
