“I believe in the importance of listening to their concerns and addressing them in order to build trustful relationships.”

About Bruna Taveras Garcia, MD

“Since I was a child, I knew I wanted to help people,” Dr. Bruna Taveras Garcia explains. One of her favorite parts of her profession is seeing patients smile after feeling healthier. She understands the value of patience and compassion in her practice. She likes connecting with patients on a personal level and employs a “warm, patient-centered approach” to “ensure that every senior under my care feels valued and understood.” She adds, “I believe in the importance of listening to their concerns and addressing them in order to build trustful relationships.”

When not with patients, Dr. Garcia’s favorite activity is spending quality time with her husband and son. She also enjoys dancing and traveling to new places.
