About Deanna Bajala, MD

Dr. Deanna Bajala has always “had a passion for learning, science, and helping others.” She loves partnering with her patients “to help them achieve what is important to them and improve their quality of life.” She prioritizes “communication and trust” in her practice. She feels especially honored to care for the senior population. “Caring for seniors is coming full circle for me. I decided to go into medicine after the loss of my grandfather, and now I am serving other people’s grandparents by keeping them healthy,” she explains.” She adds, “Healthcare needs to be viewed and treated as a right.”

In her free time, Dr. Bajala loves having family dinners and game nights. She also enjoys exploring St. Louis and practicing fiber art.
