" If everyone could receive the healthcare they deserve, the world would be a better place."

About Srikruthi Kakulavarapu, MD

Dr. Kakulavarapu chose to become a primary care physician to "be the main player" in her patients' care. She explains, "I want to problem solve with them, work with them, hold their hand through the toughest diagnoses." She always treats patients with empathy and a smile. If she could change anything about healthcare today, she would decrease the care disparities. "If everyone could receive the healthcare they deserve, the world would be a better place," she says. She treats her patients like family and loves advocating for them.

In her off time, Dr. Kakulavarapu can be found contributing to her cooking blog or choreographing Folk and Bollywood dances. She also loves spending time with family and friends.
